

Anaru Fraser

Anaru is the General Manager of Hui E! Community Aotearoa. Anaru formerly worked with the Ministry for Primary Industries, Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment, Department of Conservation and the Maori Land Court. He has over 15 years' international policy development experience in the United Nations area of food security and malnutrition and more broadly in education, health, human rights, justice, environmental and cultural rights related to Indigenous Peoples and civil societies.

He has worked on development issues both nationally – Crown-Māori Economic Growth Partnership – and internationally – the UN's Sustainable Development Goals.

Anaru is part of an organization of Indigenous Peoples from North, Central, South, Latin America, the Caribbean and the Pacific – and has represented them on a United Nations global committee on Food Security. He is an international advocate for Indigenous Peoples food security in the areas of connecting smallholders to markets, fisheries and aquaculture, land tenure, agriculture investment, nutrition, price volatility, protracted crisis and conflict, climate change and biofuels.

Phil Newman

Phil is the International Programmes Director at Tearfund. He was previously CEO of Transparency International Australia. He took the organisation from a volunteer-led organization to a professionalised advocacy and programming organisation, leading a global programme - funded by the Australian Aid Programme - to tackle corruption within the mining sector. He also worked for Transparency International in Vietnam and is currently the Board Chair of Transform Aid International. His previous career was in the finance sector, but his passion lies in aid and development work.

Phil has significant executive (and governance) experience and strong strategic leadership skills. He has a natural positive outlook, a leaning toward collaboration and alliances and engages easily and confidently across a broad range of people.

Rachel Roberts

Rachel works with organisations on strategic and operational communications, as well as project-based work. She has worked across not-for-profit organisations, business and government agencies, as diverse as philanthropy and Search and Rescue. She has supported, driven and consulted on a wide range of activities. She has worked on a number of cross sector projects and forums aimed at creating collaborative responses to the issues at hand.

Rachel is most interested in delivering communication leadership that provides clarity and leads to practical outcomes that are fit for purpose and achievable.

In a previous life she was a journalist and radio producer working on e National Radio's Nine to Noon programme.

Rachel is married to Chris; they have two teenage boys and live a great life on Wellington's South Coast.

Suzanne Snively

Suzanne chairs Transparency International New Zealand and was a joint Co-Director of the comprehensive Integrity Plus 2013 New Zealand National Integrity System Assessment. She is now leading the TINZ Financial Integrity System Assessment that provides an opportunity for accounting, legal, audit, risk management and strategic development knowledge to demonstrate the strengths, and advise on ways to enhance the integrity, of New Zealand's financial system.

Suzanne was previously a Partner at PricewaterhouseCoopers specialising as an economic strategist. She has been a company director for over 30 years, with extensive governance experience across public, private and not-for-profit sectors.

Suzanne is currently on the Health Research Council, and a Director of New Zealand Opera, Whanau Ora Commissioning Agency, Te Pou Matakana and an Independent Director of the Army Leadership Board. She was the Chair of the Phase 1 Review of the Reserve Bank Act 1989 and is the Chair of Phase 2.